

ROOSEVELT LED THE CHEERING

Lawton Monument At Indianapolis Was Unveiled By Daughter Of Dead General.

PRESIDENT GAVE CHIEF ADDRESS

James Whitcomb Riley Read His Poem Written After The Death Of Lawton--Ex-Chaplain Of G. A. R. Offered Prayer.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 30.—Indiana paid tribute to the memory of one of her most famous sons today, when a statue of Gen. Henry W. Lawton, who met a soldier's death in battle at San Mateo, Philippine Islands, Sept. 19, 1899, was unveiled in the presence of the President of the United States and many other prominent guests. The statue is placed in the grounds of the court-house, where a vast crowd of people congregated this afternoon to witness the unveiling ceremony and to hear the address of the President.

President Roosevelt reached the city shortly before 11 o'clock this morning and was met at the Union station by a reception committee of citizens. With detachments of federal troops from Forts Thomas, Wayne and Sheridan acting as escort, the President was driven to the home of Vice President Fairbanks in North Meridian street, where luncheon was served. A party of more than twenty persons, including Governor Hanly, Mayor Bookwalter and other eminent representatives of the state and city, were invited to meet the president at luncheon.

It was after 1 o'clock when the procession was formed to escort the President to scene of the day's exercises. The parade was a notable military pageant, embracing in addition to the federal troops several regiments of the Indiana National Guard, Grand Army veterans and veterans of the Spanish war and numerous other military and semi-military organizations. The prominent guests occupied carriages, among them being the widow and family of General Lawton, Brig. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, representing the Secretary of War, Major Gen. J. M. Lee, who was a member of Gen. Lawton's staff, and a number of other prominent soldiers.

In Meridian street the Grand Army veterans joined the escort, falling in line immediately behind the carriages. The route of the procession was through Meridian, Market, Illinois and Washington streets to the site of the statue. All of the streets were profusely decorated with the national colors, while the sidewalks, yards and windows were filled with spectators who gave the President an enthusiastic greeting. The crowd was increased by the presence of many thousands of visitors from all parts of Indiana.

The program of exercises at the unveiling was simple but impressive. A flag-draped stand for the speakers and distinguished guests was erected immediately in the rear of the statue. Washington and Delaware streets, both unusually wide thoroughfares, afforded good accommodations for the

PATRICK HENRY DAY AT JAMESTOWN FAIR

Most Successful Celebration Yet Held at Exposition--Bryan One of the Speakers.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Norfolk, Va., May 30.—Patrick Henry Day was observed at the Jamestown Exposition today and it proved the most successful of the special feature days celebrated at the exposition to date. The day was appropriately chosen for the celebration, it being the anniversary of the passage of Patrick Henry's famous resolution on the stamp act by the House of Burgesses. The exercises began at 11 o'clock this morning in Convention Hall, which was filled to overflowing. The chief orators were ex-Governor W. E. Cameron and Hon. William J. Bryan. Governor Cameron spoke of "Patrick Henry, His Life and His Work for His Country," while the subject of Mr. Bryan's address was "Taxation Without Representation is Tyranny."

RACE WILL NOT BE EASY FOR CORNELL

Ithacans Are Still Undeclared But Will Not Run Away From Seat on Harvard Crew.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Ithaca, N. Y., May 30.—Many athletic enthusiasts and college men have arrived here to witness the third annual boat race between the crews of Harvard and Cornell to take place late this afternoon on Lake Cayuga. The start will be at 5:30 o'clock, and the race will be rowed over the regular two-mile straightaway course. In view of the fact that the Red and White has been victorious in both of the previous races and the further fact that the Crimson met defeat a short time ago by Columbia, it is but natural that Cornell should be the favorite in today's contest. Harvard is not without her supporters, however, and the general opinion is that the race will be one of the best ever seen here.

TURBINE YACHT FOR BRITISH MONARCH

"Alexandra" Launched at Glasgow and Christened by Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Glasgow, May 30.—In the presence of an immense crowd of spectators the turbine yacht "Alexandra," built for King Edward, was successfully launched today at the shipyards of A. & J. Inglis. The christening ceremony was performed by the Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll. The "Alexandra" is a steel craft of about 2,000 tons displacement and 4,500 indicated horsepower. She is 300 feet in length, 40 feet in breadth, and 28 feet in depth. The vessel is designed more with a view to comfort than to speed or show. It will contain a handsome pavilion room, smoking room and commodious quarters for the officers and attendants of the King. A novel feature will be two small tea houses which have a clear view ahead and astern and over each side. An elegant stairway gives access to the bridge deck.

Smith, more familiarly known as "Pittsburg Phil," the race track plunger who died two years ago, leaving an estate worth more than $1,000,000. The statue surmounts the $10,000 mausoleum in which the remains of the plunger lie buried, and which was erected by Smith's mother, who has remarried since his death and is now Mrs. Eliza Woods. The statue is a striking likeness of the dead man, a trifle over life-size, and depicts him bareheaded with a roll of papers in his right hand.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS' SEVENTEENTH REUNION

Opens This Morning--Statue Of Dashing Cavalry Leader, Gen. Stuart, Unveiled.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Richmond, Va., May 30.—Three big events combined today to make memorable the opening of the seventeenth national reunion of the United Confederate Veterans in this city. The first was the formal opening of the reunion this morning, the session being devoted to addresses by prominent veterans, the appointment of the necessary committees and other business of a routine character.

The second event was a grand parade of veterans and military, leading up to the crowning feature of the day's program, the unveiling of the monument to Gen. J. E. B. Stuart, the dashing cavalry leader of the Army of Northern Virginia.

The day began with the city filled with the largest crowd of visitors ever entertained in Richmond. Last night and the early hours of this morning special and regular trains arrived at frequent intervals bringing to the city thousands of the men who wore the gray, together with their families, friends and other visitors. The crash of bands was to be heard in almost every street as the veterans were escorted to the quarters assigned to them.

The visitors have found the arrangement for their reception and entertainment of the most elaborate and perfect character. Hotels and boarding-houses are filled and scores of private homes have been thrown open for the accommodation of the veterans. The city is a mass of color, the decorations of flags and bunting being most elaborate throughout the business section.

General John W. Gordon was the chief marshal of the parade, which was the feature of the early afternoon. In the line were the survivors of the Veteran Cavalry association of the Army of Northern Virginia; gray-clad veterans from every state of the south, members of the Sons of Veterans, the Confederate Monument association, the United Daughters of the Confederacy and various other organizations.

The music of the bands, the waving of the torn and tattered battle flags, the rattle and clatter of the horses and the field pieces and the many marching veterans served to tint the procession with just enough martial color to make it form a fitting preliminary to the unveiling of the handsome bronze monument to the illustrious cavalry leader.

The exercises of unveiling were opened with prayer by the Rev. Walter Q. Hulihan of Staunton, Va., who was a member of General Stuart's staff. The oration of the day was delivered by General Theodore S. Garrett, also a member of General Stuart's staff, and who was introduced to the assembled thousands by Major A. R. Venable, Jr., another of Gen. Stuart's staff (and who was with the general when he received his death wound). The unveiling ceremony was performed by Miss Virginia Stuart Waller, escorted by Master J. E. B. Stuart, both grand-nephews of Gen. Stuart. Mayor McCarthy received the statue on behalf of the City of Richmond.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

The caprice of Fashion was never more clearly illustrated than in millinery by the general adoption of the small hat with an overhanging brim, conveying the effect of an inverted saucer, and a depression around the crown is filled up with ribbon, cherries, velvet or various other trimmings.
 True it is that this shape was fore-fronts trimmed with Venetian or Irish lace, and sleeves without exception of three-quarter length.

White China silk waists, crossed and re-crossed by narrow insertion are a valuable part of the summer's toilet, and the dotted foulard waist in almost endless variety is yet another most in spring styles, but there were others far more becoming and the small saucerlike hat, pushed back from the face and perched on a pompadour roll is positively disfiguring, yet nine out of ten women one sees on the streets, sacrifices everything akin to beauty for what is termed "fashionable."

Larger Hats
 The larger hat on the mushroom order is more endurable, and elegant Leghorns or chips expensively trimmed, destined for summer use at favorite resorts, also have the drooping brim. A Leghorn shown by a leading house is trimmed with blue hydrangas and salmon-pink velvet. A second has a garniture of very large roses, blue, sweet peas, and blue satin ribbon is draped among the flowers and also knotted under the brim.
 White ribbon velvet and white ostrich plumes are an elegant garniture for a Leghorn. White taffeta silk in a huge bow at the front and draped around the crown is another handsome white trimming. One or two mammoth roses, as a heading to white ostrich plumes are very stylish, exclusive however from their costliness.
 As a color contrast comes a large black chip, the crown encircled with satin of "crushed strawberry" color, and two broad ostrich plumes in two shades, droop over the front, and two (equally large) fall at each side of the back.

Lingerie Hats
 These do not admit of any special change—lace ruffles over shirred brims cap-crowns satin ribbon loops or drapings, and flowers usually small sometimes in wreaths from the category; the chief recommendation however of the lingerie hats is that they are lighter, more girlish and above all less expensive than the stately Leghorns. They are furthermore in harmony with the lingerie waist and dress, to which there seems no end.
 The newest waists are of dotted or figured lace, preferably the latter, the proof of the favor accorded to this valued material. At present, they are worn as an adjunct to tailor suits, but later on they will be worn with handsome skirts as independent waists. The majority have the three-quarter sleeve and a double ruffle down the front.

Spring Suits
 Many spring suits are made with the "Prince Chap" jacket, prettily trimmed with eight lengthwise rows of small buttons (five each) with simulated button holes of silk braid, on pockets at each side of the front, and also on sleeves. Four large buttons are on the left front. It is certainly somewhat early to foretell fall styles and fabrics, but those who dwell in the innermost circle are positive that silk will be the material for next season, and the cordial approbation extended to the "Mirage de Pantisie."
 was due to its peculiar beauty and excellent wearing qualities. It is well adapted to the present clinging styles and its shadowy surface in all fashionable hues, imparts special charm.

A Striped French Voile
 A voile, striped in white and two shades of brown, shows a plaited skirt on the bias, the lower edge finished by a brown silk band, handsomely braided in the darker shade of brown. The jacket is a plaited Eton, the fronts braided, and small buttons and braid straps seem to retain the plaits in place. The brown silk revers is covered by a shawl collar of elegant white Venetian lace and the three-quarter sleeves are edged by a braided band. Two handsome jeweled buttons are at the front.

Lingerie Dresses
 Certainly the daintiest of today has every opportunity to charm when wearing a lingerie dress in either white or pale colors, and not unfrequently the two are combined with a lingerie hat and parasol in harmony.
 To enter into details concerning these dresses would be a hopeless task.
 Combinations of lace and batiste in any tasteful way, tell the whole story and the "button-in-the-back" lingerie waist" continues to try the temper of the average woman.

Little White Etons
 The daintiest of dainty little Etons come in light weight corded pique trimmed with embroidery, in linen with hand embroidery and also in sheer lawn, traversed by lace insertion. They will be worn over white or colored dresses, preferably the latter, and are a pretty substitute for the very expensive linen and lace jackets described in a previous letter.

FANNIE FIELD.

OHIO WILL LOSE BY INTERNAL STRIFE

Both Taft and Foraker Can Not Win
 Out and Feeling Will Be Bitter.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., May 30.—Unless the political dove of peace can find a roosting place in Ohio in the near future, it is regarded as certain that the Buckeye state will be "out of the running" so far as the republican convention of 1908 is concerned. It is not at all likely, so far as can be seen in Washington, that the Taft-Foraker factions can get together. Senator Foraker is not the sort of man to abandon a fight once he goes into it and the political hair pulling now in progress in Ohio probably will grow more bitter as time wears on. As the first rule in the political handbook declares that a candidate must have a state delegation solidly behind him if he is to be considered in the light of a possibility at all, the chances for either Taft or Foraker receiving the nomination in the next convention are daily growing less favorable. On the other hand Indiana is avowedly for Fairbanks, Illinois is lined up to a man behind Speaker Cannon, while in Pennsylvania the republican convention is expected to endorse unanimously the boom of Senator Knox.

 With harmony in these three states and each one of them putting forward a strong man, it is likely that the country at large will leave Ohio to settle their squabble by themselves.
 There is no doubt that President Roosevelt is too finished a politician to attempt to force the candidacy of Secretary Taft upon the American people when there is such disturbance in the secretary's own political household. It is doubtful whether even the President's powerful personality and strong hold on the public at large would be sufficient to win the nomination for the secretary, even if he should try to do so. Thus the woes of Ohio are the joys of the other states with favorite sons.

"Tama Jim" Wilson, secretary of agriculture, believes that some member of the cabinet should write the life of Theodore Roosevelt in order that the future generations of Americans may have a truthful insight into the remarkable character and achievements of the President. Mr. Wilson believes that this task should be undertaken by some member of the President's official family who has been with him through his entire administration, for he contends that no other person really is qualified to put in cold print the real story of the President's life. As he and Secretary Cortelyou are the only cabinet officers whose service spans this long term, it will probably be he who will act as
 Mr. Roosevelt's biographer. Secretary Cortelyou does not wield a very facile pen, while Mr. Wilson, before taking the portfolio, he now holds, won considerable reputation in Iowa as an editor and writes with much directness and style. In addition, he has actually been longer in the cabinet than any other one of its members. Mr. Cortelyou having been private secretary when first thrown into intimate association with Mr. Roosevelt. It is known that two or three big publishing houses already have asked Secretary Wilson to write the work and it would not be at all surprising if he did so.

President Roosevelt's determination to make a three or four days' trip next fall down the Mississippi river, unless something at that time develops to prevent, has caused general satisfaction. His letter accepting the invitation of the governors of sixteen states is regarded as an especially strong one, for he lays great stress on the fact that the benefits derived from the Father of Waters and that the whole nation will benefit by the direct saving that ultimately will be affected by the reduction of transportation tolls. In his letter he says:

"The basin of the Mississippi taken as a whole, from the Gulf to the Great Lakes, from the Alleghenies to the Rockies, constitutes the greatest agricultural empire that men have ever cultivated, and an equally great system of water highways is needed to supply any inadequacy of land carriage for the products of this region."

The President will make his voyage of inspection early in October and will accompany the members of the inland waterways commission from some point in middle Illinois or Ohio to Memphis. The commission at the present time is just completing a trip down the Mississippi from St. Louis to New Orleans. It is being piloted by Congressman Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana, with its members to be a member of the house committee on rivers and harbors, is president of the National Rivers & Harbors commission. This organization has been engaged for half a decade in impressing upon the government and the people of the United States the urgent necessity for adopting a strong federal policy of waterways betterment. It will continue its advocacy of this question and its officers feel that the present interest being taken in the subject increases its responsibility, for if the interest is not sustained the work now under way and projected will suffer. To that end its secretary, Capt. J. F. Edlison of Cincinnati, O., is putting forth extra efforts to build up the organization, which, already is powerful and with its members in every state and territory in the Union.

TWO CIRCUSES ARE PROMISED TO CITY

Barnum & Bailey Show Here in August—Forepaugh-Sells in September.

Janesville is not to be slighted by the big circuses this summer. The great Barnum & Bailey circus is to be in Janesville on August 8 and the Forepaugh-Sells aggregation in September, the date not yet fixed. There is a possibility that the Hagenbeck-Wallace show will also be here but this is very remote. This summer the Ringling circus is in the east, while the Barnum show comes west.
 It is thus the circus trust divides up the territory, leaving the independent shows to scout and fight for territory themselves. The advance man for the Barnum show was here last night and made his contracts with Manager

..Forty Years Ago..

Janesville Daily Gazette Thursday, May 30, 1867.—Base Ball, West Side.—The members of the West Side Base Ball Club will meet on the grounds, a little N. W. of the passenger depot, Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, for practice and organization.

Singular Phenomenon.—A bright luminous appearance has prevailed all nature today, resembling similar phenomena witnessed by the "oldest inhabitant" in days past. "What is still more singular is that up to the hour of going to press heavy a drop of rain has fallen. What's the matter?"

Dunier & Benedic's Minstrels.—The entertainment given by this troupe, last evening was well attended, and the performance excellent as it always is when they go upon the boards. One of the best things of the occasion was a fine burlesque on the laughable farce of Box and Cox. The closing pantomime scenes were also quite novel and entertaining.

"The Next President of the United States."—Gov. Smith of New Hampshire recently introduced Speaker Colfax to an audience in Concord, as the "next President of the United States." That is undoubtedly the opinion of a great number of people but without stopping to discuss that question, we wish simply to say that reserved seats for his lecture on Saturday evening can be secured at King at the Free Office, where a diagram of the Hall may be seen.

A Poor Bank.—Some ten days since a small store in Sharon, Walworth county, belonging to Thomas Wimble, was destroyed by fire, involving a loss of some $2,000 on which the was an insurance of some $1,200. While Mr. Dimock was down settling the loss, he learned that the owners of the store had tucked away in a pigeonhole on the desk among scraps of wall paper $1,100 in greenbacks which saved the fate of the building and contents and on which there was no insurance. A poor bank to keep so much money in.

Before The Footlights.

"The Three of Us" With a record of 227 nights in New York, unlimited praise from the newspapers and audiences who have seen it, Walter N. Lawrence's original production of "The Three of Us," a four-act drama, comes to the Garrick theatre, Chicago, on Sunday evening, June 2d.

Never since "The Music Master" has a play received the enthusiastic praise that has been accorded "The Three of Us." Its fidelity to life, its perfect cast, the minuteness of which every detail has been carried out, the human interest, the pathos, the everyday life story it tells make it a theatrical production which one can never forget or grow tired of seeing.

Mr. Lawrence has given the theatre-goers of this city the chance of seeing such delightful plays as Henry B. Dixey's "The Man on the Box," Cyril Scott in "The Prince Chap," and Harry Conner in "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," but he says and New York endorses it that "The Three of Us" is greater than even those great successes.

Youngstown, Columbus, Dayton and Indianapolis are the only cities the original company will play on its way from New York to Chicago where it begins an all summer run on Sunday, June 2d.

Rhy Macchiosny, the heroine, and her two brothers are "The Three of Us." They live in a western mining camp, but there is none of the usual western atmosphere of red shirts, top boots, guns and whiskey. Neither is there any of the conventional mining camp machinery and crowds of rough miners. All four acts are interiors, two of them taking place at Rhy's home, but occasional glimpses of outdoors are gained through the frosted window panes, and the snow on the garments of the players, which is so realistic that an audience on a warm night feels as refreshed as though suddenly introduced to a refrigerator.

Peace That Passeth Understanding.

One stormy day the minister of Jedburgh, Scotland, called upon a member of his church, a very poor old man, who lived all alone. The snow was drifting under the door and through the rafters and there was but little fire on the hearth. The pastor greeted him with "What are you doing to-day, John?" and the old saint's reply was, "Oh, sir, I am just sitting under this shadow with great delight."

Why Politicians Disagree.

Crazy people never act together, declares the superintendent of a large asylum for the insane. "If one inmate attacks an attendant, as sometimes happens, the others would look upon it as no affair of theirs and simply watch it out. The moment we discover two or more inmates working together we would know they were on the road to recovery."

Prolific Lake Erie.

It is said that Lake Erie produces more fish to the square mile than any other body of water in the world.

Homesteads in Alaska.

It is stated by C. C. Georgeson, special agent of the United States department of agriculture, in charge of Alaskan investigations, that Alaska has agricultural possibilities to an extent which will make the fullest development of her resources practicable. The territory can furnish homesteads of 320 acres each to 200,000 families, and has abundant resources to support a population of 3,000,000 persons.

PRINCE OF MONACO.

Prince Albert Honore Charles of Monaco, the ruler of the tiny principality in which the world-famous resort, Monte Carlo, is situated, was born in Paris on November 13, 1848. He has been twice married, his present wife having been the Duchess Alice de Richelieu. He is extremely wealthy and his duties as a ruler are as not to affect his ability to spend his time usually in amusing himself. The heir to his principality is Prince Louis of Monaco, who will be 37 years old on July 12 next. Prince Albert has a single hobby—studying the ocean, its conformation and tides and currents. He owns a palace at Monaco, a chateau near Aisne, in France, and a splendid mansion in Paris.

Her Majesty's Etiquette.

Queen Alexandra of England is strict on such points of etiquette as make it a breach of decorum, for instance, to hand anything but new and unused coin, fresh from the mint, to the consort of the British sovereign.

To make love to her majesty is punishable, by the law of Britain, with death, unless, of course, one happens to be the king.

Sayings of Childhood.

DECORATION DAY.

Today is Decoration Day, the one day in the whole year that we pay tribute to the soldier dead. The old lines of demarcation which set the north off from the south have all been eliminated by time and but few of the men who fought in the early Sixties, that we might be one people now and forever, remain alive. Year by year we see their ranks decimated by death and their bodies consigned to the clay from they sprang. Today we place wreaths upon their graves, put flags as markers to designate the last resting place of the departed heroes. It is a just and fitting tribute to the men who gave the best of their lives for their country. All honor to the veteran, the old soldier with his stump of an arm or leg, or crippled by disease who marches today to show his respect to his dead comrades. Soon all will be gone to their last resting place and their lives only memories. But as long as the United States exists as a nation the day will be kept sacred to their memory and while other hands will place the wreaths and plant the flags—their deeds will live after them.

THE OPPORTUNITY.

Now is the opportunity given to the citizens of Rock county to thoroughly demonstrate the good roads movements. Eight towns have already signified their intentions of taking advantage of the law which permits the town to demand an equal sum from the county as they contribute for the establishment of good macadam roads. Good roads are necessary for the welfare and prosperity of every community. The ancient Romans saw this and became the greatest road builders of antiquity. The early settlers of the west traveled over the great Cumberland turnpike into the land of promise and riches. Toll roads flourished in the first part of the century and paid for themselves many times over. Uncle Sam builds good roads wherever he undertakes the work. His national parks are filled with fine driveways which stand the strain and pressure of heavy teaming and loaded coaches. If properly built the Rock county roads will last into a future generation and it is to be hoped they will be built with care and foresight and not haste and waste.

ROOSEVELT'S SPEECH

At Indianapolis today President Roosevelt is delivering a speech that may make some of the railroad corporations sit up and take notice. He talks without the threat of the big stick but everyone knows it is there just the same. President Roosevelt is a rare sort of a man. He has made many enemies in powerful quarters, but they dare not use their power openly against him. He is a friend of the people and this fact deters an open attack upon him. Roosevelt is a man who does what he thinks is right and cares not whether he hits friends or foes. His speech today typifies the man as he really is—brave and fearless who dares to do right because it is right. While his ideas on the railroad situation do not conform to the fixed schedules of many prominent men, they are what he considers right and as such are respected.

Reports from other parts of the state show that the seeds are rotting in the ground. Well, every spring we hear such a cry go up—but somehow or other when harvest time comes round there appears to be enough to make everyone work who wants to work getting them into the barns.

The Milwaukee Free Press is trying to force public sentiment in favor of a Wisconsin man for President. It is not certain yet that Roosevelt will not run. Taft is also a heavy-weight entry and Fairbanks and Cannon must be counted on for doing some thing these nice cool days.

City cleaning-up, washing the Red Light district clean of all its impurities, appears to be something that Chicago is now doing to the queen's taste and doing such a good job that the former scenes of gaiety will soon be quiet and safe neighborhood for anyone to live in.

The Cubs and the Sox are still absorbing topics of conversation in Chicago this summer. Both teams have their supporters who are doing all sorts of rooting for their favorites without any regard to the feeling of the average citizen who does not know a baseball from a football.

It is amusing to hear the old citizens tell about other springs that were as cold as the present. Not only amusing but also comforting to think we are not the only age and generation that do not enjoy such days and nights.

What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander and if the saloons are made to close on Sundays then the breweries should also. It sounds logical, but the court will decide that point.

Milwaukee entertained the little Jap here in royal style. Showed him the breweries and the soldiers' home, the Deutscher Club and the Pfister hotel and then he went back to Chicago to see and smell the stockyards.

The hand organ man with the monkey and the Italian with the dancing bear have either gone out of business or have scratched Janesville off their lists. So much the better for Janesville.

This delayed spring will add to the ash piles that were hauled out months ago, but it will still give the small lot owner an opportunity to make his flower beds over and over again to suit his fancy.

While it is discouraging for farmers to have to delay their spring work yet many of them find time to make little improvements about the barn or house that could not be accomplished during zero days.

Do you remember that old poem, "Somewhere the sun is shining." Well if that place can be definitely located it is safe to bet it is not near Medicine Hat district.

It now turns out that the awful shooting escapade at Mendota, Illinois was only a dodge of the John Robinson show agent to get some free advertising.

That bandstand proposition does not appear to be meeting with the overwhelming endorsement it was thought probable when first contemplated.

These tales that the fishermen bring back with them when they fail to bring the fish should be subject of a grand jury investigation.

Janesville stands ready to welcome good substantial industries to its heart and fireside but fly-by-night schemers are not wanted.

Everything promises to be interesting when the candidates for Senator seek their opening wages into public favor.

Janesville still gives promise of waking up sufficiently to show some of the neighboring municipalities what is what.

Decoration Day of Sixty-two was nothing like this. Some fellows remember it being pretty hot where they were.

Building promises to be quite an important item in the business world of Janesville this spring.

Fall weather can not be much worse than the present spring days.

PRESS COMMENT.

Temptation of Modern Reaper. Rockford Register-Gazette: The Bible says thou shalt not swear, but there were no dull lawn mowers in those times.

At the Honorable Stockyards. Chicago Tribune: Gen. Kuroki visited the honorable stockyards this time. It impressed him as being magnificent, but it was not war.

Quite a General Impression. New York Commercial: The amount of confessing is altogether out of proportion to the number of penitentiary sentences in this country.

Dunkard's Modest Reform. Baltimore Sun: The Dunkards purpose to prohibit the wearing of neckties. They must have seen some of the new striped horrors the youngsters are wearing.

Recreations vs. Explanations. Monroe Journal: If a man could have eight hours for work, eight hours for sleep, and eight hours for recreations, instead of explanations, life might be worth hustling for.

Too Much of a Good Thing. Beloit Free Press: The lumber companies in the northern woods are having troubles with strikers. They have become weary shoveling snow all summer and have quit work.

Henry Taken to Task.

Menasha Record: It is reported that Henry James says he "never heard an American woman say 'Thank you.'" Now, Henry, what have you ever done to give them occasion to say that?

Most of it is Simply Mixed

Monroe Sentinel: A Washington scientist claims that he has found a way of making whisky without a worm. What is really needed, however, is something that will eliminate the snakes.

It Has Beat Fondlest Hopes.

Washington Herald: It is not probable that any poet in the world, save and except Alfred Austin, would have the nerve to indite a poem to "Victorious Spring" under the existing circumstances.

Sneers at the Possibility.

Madison Journal: Senator La Follette can come about as near getting a solid delegation from Wisconsin for his presidential candidacy, as he came to making Lenroot governor over J. O. Davidson.

Anarchy Reigns in Frisco.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Says the Los Angeles Herald: "Anarchy instead of legitimate city government prevails in San Francisco just now." Ah, we inferred so. There is the testimony of a sister California city.

White Ribboners After T. R.

Pond du Lac Reporter: And now the W. C. T. U. is after "Teddy," because he dared to advocate the restoration of the army canteen, and to congratulate Senator Knox upon his speech in defense of Senator Spooner.

MacArthur Home at Last.

Topoka Herald: After forty years' absence in constant service in the armies of his country, Gen. MacArthur has at last returned to his boyhood's home in Milwaukee where he expects to spend the rest of his days in peace and quiet.

Hosiery Crusade's Failure Foredoomed. Madison Democrat: Still, if the young gentlemen of the Sentinel were unable to accomplish so insignificant a task as the election of a United States senator, who utter rashness this hysterical crusade to reform the frantic hosiery of our college boys.

Settled; Debate Superfluous.

Fond du Lac Bulletin: There can be no doubt that the Wisconsin delegation to the republican national convention will be for La Follette for the nomination if the movement is launched for that purpose. It would be idle for any set of men to oppose such a movement.

Dewey's Great Flagship—"23."

Springfield Republican: How swiftly old age and superannuation overtake the proudest warship! It seems but the other day that Dewey sailed into Manila harbor, and here is his flagship, the Olympia, being turned into a practice ship for cadets, and the cruiser Baltimore, which took part in the same battle, assigned to the lower ignominy of planting torpedoes.

The Journal's Successful Failure.

Appleton Post: Now that the Milwaukee Journal has succeeded in not electing its choice of republican candidates to the senate, it should devote its attention to discovering a breach in its own party through which it can slip back to its old time moorings. The Journal has an immense influence in accomplishing the defeat of whoever it favors.

Madison Journal Furious.

Green Bay Gazette: The old State Journal down at Madison is hot on the path of the Democrat of that city in an attempt to disprove the allegation of the latter that the Journal's circulation is of the "furnace room" variety. The seriousness of the Journal in its attempt to prove it has the "goods" would be laughable were it not so terribly in earnest.

To Escape Fearful Reproach.

Oshkosh Northwestern: The Janesville Gazette warns Lieutenant Governor Connor that if he retires from the political game now, as a recent report suggested he might do, it will merely give the Milwaukee Journal a chance to claim the credit for having driven him back into the tall timber. And of course Mr. Connor comes to think of it in this light he may decide to change his mind.

Persuasive Patriotism Better.

Madison Journal: What President Van Hise accomplished here for the proper observance of Memorial Day, by a kindly suggestion, the governor of Kansas is trying to accomplish in his state by threats of law enforcement. Governor Hoch has announced that the state law against such sports, will be enforced against any persons engaging in athletic sports of any kind in Kansas on Memorial Day.

A Situation Most Confusing.

Exchange: The political situation is confusing. At a national convention of tramps held near Chippewa Falls on Thursday Senator Foraker was endorsed for president, and Senator La Follette was praised. Following the announcement of their political preferences, the tramps started to parade the streets of Chippewa Falls, but were unceremoniously run out of town by the police.

Late Unpleasantness Forgiven.

La Crosse Tribune: The Tribune will support Robert M. La Follette for the republican nomination. It believes he is the man of the hour, and that he helped to make the hour in which the people are prepared to drop the last display of toadyism to incorporate wealth and to take the government into their own hands so that at last it may become again in fact what we have presumed to call it in theory—a "government of the people, by the people and for the people."

To Their Credit They Refrained.

Sheboygan Journal: The American public, which allows no secrets so far as its public men are concerned, did not pry into the sad secrets of the McKinley household. There was a dignity about President McKinley's care for his invalid wife that kept the curious aloof. The yellow newspapers did not intrude upon the secrets of the McKinley family. No better example of what the American newspaper can Inelegant But Stoughton Likes It. Stoughton Hub: The latest in classic English heard in the select circle of this burg is "You are a carp" that is, when these manipulators of the Queen's best call you a "carp" they mean that you belong to the finny tribe, that you wallow in the bottom of the Yahara—that you are a rotter by introspection, that you change your brand, and for quite often, as carp not infrequently pass as salmon, and that you prey upon your species. These are some of the delightfully nice things they say about you when they call you a "carp." There is nothing so charmingly attractive as to bear this ravens' appealation falling from lips of classic mould and cultured minds. You are right up in the diction of nice society if you use it on every occasion.

BAD FOR THE WAGE EARNERS.

Judge Grosscup Says Municipal Ownership Would Lower Wages.

Government control and operation would also be found, I think, to have a disadvantageous effect upon the special interest of the laboring man. Labor sometimes gets less than the enterprise employing can afford to pay, but labor never gets more, at least for any length of time, than the enterprise can afford to pay. Lowered efficiency therefore means lowered wages. And public ownership always has been and always will be on this account attended by lower wages. The men who are motormen on the municipal street railways of Glasgow, for instance, get a little less than 33 cents an hour; the motormen of Chicago get from 21 to 24 cents an hour. The locomotive engineer of a German government railroad gets $50 per month; the American locomotive engineer makes easily three times that much. And through the whole schedule of wages paid by public and by private enterprises the same difference runs.

But there is still another side to this objection, what may be called its personal side, the effect of public ownership on organized labor. Much as labor organizations have been abused here and there by opposing interests and much as here and there labor organizations have abused their privileges, it is in labor organizations that the laboring man finds and will continue to find the source of bettered conditions.

Asking for higher wages the one man is unheard. But the many speaking as one make themselves heard. So that the labor organization is the laborer's industrial protector.

But the many speaking as one must have some one to whom to speak, some concrete party with whom to deal. Under government ownership that party would be the whole public. Let not the ready sympathy of the people for alleviative measures such as factory legislation and the like be given too wide a significance, for even there the task was long and hard, nor the readiness of the public to side in at times of labor strikes with the employers. In those situations the public is an outside party, not the other party. Until in some public-controlled enterprise there is a demand by the employee for higher wages or changed conditions, some demand that will directly cost the public something in dollars and cents, the laboring man is without proof that the public can be more easily reached than private enterprise.

Something in this line, however, we already know. Government servants, from the highest to the lowest, are the poorest paid people in America. Put, man for man, against corresponding grades in private enterprise, the president of the United States against the presidents of the great corporations; cabinet officers against the managers of corporation departments; postal clerks on the railways against express clerks, laborers against laborers, the advantage in every case is with the employee of the private enterprise. And this we know, too, that though the matter has often been urged, the people at large will not listen to any proposition for increase of pay in the government service. Given then a private employer or the public as employer with whom to deal, the one a thousand times more accessible and infinitely prompter to reach results than the other, to my mind nothing is clearer or than that employment by the public would be followed by a severe impairment of the influence and efficiency of the labor organization and of the good it has done for its membership.—Hon. Peter S. Grosscup in American Magazine.

Electric Lighting Plants Short Lived.

During the past year the technical press has recorded the breaking down of a large number of municipal electric light plants because the equipment was worn out. It is interesting to note that in a large majority of cases the plant came at a period of from ten to fifteen years after it had been installed, showing that the deterioration by wear alone amounted to from 7 to 10 per cent a year.

According to the municipal ownership advocates who claim that an allowance of 3 per cent for depreciation is adequate, these plants should all have lived for thirty years, yet wearing out is only one of the forms of depreciation, and most of these plants had been hopelessly out of date before their breakdown occurred.

Other cities may well take warning from the experience of these and make an allowance for maintenance and depreciation far in excess of the estimates of interested parties if they would avoid the thankless task of paying for broken down plants out of the tax levy.

Council Bluffs Rejects M. O.

The city council has turned down the municipal ownership proposition in connection with the city waterworks plant and voted to grant a new franchise to the water company, whose franchise expired some months ago. The action was taken after a monster petition, signed by almost every business man in the city, had been presented to the council asking that the municipal proposition be killed.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

What Socialism Would Do.

The substitution of socialism, either absolutely or in a modified form, would be to strike down the best political system which has been thus far devised by the genius or wit of man, and it would undermine the last hope of the lovers of republican government in this world.—Vice President Fairbanks.

FORTY VETERANS IN PARADE TODAY

PROCEEDED TO CEMETERIES AT NINE O'CLOCK THIS MORNING.

SQUAD FROM SPANISH WAR

Survivors' Camp Acted as Their Escort—Program at Courthouse This Afternoon.

Softly, sweetly, the bugle is calling tenderly, lovingly, rising and falling. Sounding the mournful taps.

Sounding the same old hero call. The same farewell to the soldier's pall. Unchanged through time's elapse.

Silently lay your blossoms and flowers. Strew this hero grave of ours. Sending a prayer perhaps.

Then reverently bow and bare the head. Thrill while the bugle mounds the dead. Bidding farewell with "taps."

William Howard Halsey.

Presently we too, Oh soldiers, shall take our places in the bivouac fields of green. But we need not prepare for outposts, nor word for the counter-sign, nor drummer to beat the morning drum."—Walt Whitman.

Forty veterans of the Civil War and members of W. H. Sargent Post No. 26 of the Grand Army and an equal number of ladies of No. 21. W. R. C. assembled on South Main street this morning for the annual pilgrimage to the last resting places of comrades in the City of the Dead. It was shortly before nine o'clock that the wagon-load of beautiful flowers started for the Oak Hill and Mt. Olivet cemeteries, and a moment later twenty-four members of the Harry Gifford Camp of the Spanish American War Veterans, in full uniform and including a firing squad of twelve, swung by the Milwaukee street intersection. The echoes of their martial music had scarcely died away when there broke upon the balmy morning air the faint, familiar notes of the fire and drum. As the sounds grew louder a little squad of five might be seen emerging from the South Main street approach to the rendezvous.

O. P. Brunson was playing the bass-drum with the same verve and spirit, just as he played it twenty years ago. Hyatt Weaver of Magnolia, one of the snare; Frank Chase of Calville, another; George Ogden of Milton Junction, one of the fifes; William Truman of Lima, the other. Fifer Whittrill Green of Milton was unable to participate and H. M. Weaver, one of the regular snare-drummers, is confined to his home with illness.

For perhaps a quarter of an hour there was a concert of patriotic airs at the rallying point, and during this time "Comrade" Maria Gibbs, assisted by Comrade Glenn bearing the tray of flowers, pinned a bouquet on each soldier's coat lapel. Then as the street which was to carry the veterans on their little journey was brought to a stand a few rods away the order of "March" was given. Headed by the flag-bearer and the drum corps the forty moved thither in double-column, boarded the conveyance, and the impressive incident and observance of the day were over; so far as a great majority of careless onlookers were concerned.

There will be baseball and golf and other diversions this afternoon. But the soldiers, after decorating the graves and firing the salutes, will return to the city to conduct their annual exercises at the courthouse. Survivors of two wars will march from the G. A. R. Post hall at 1:15 o'clock, proceeding to the Grand hotel, where the parade will be augmented by a delegation of school children. From that point the marchers will proceed to the courthouse where the following program will be given:

LAUNCH-OWNERS ARE LIABLE TO COURTS

If They Longer Persist in Navigating the Rock at Night Without Proper Lights.

The large increase in the number of gasoline launches plying the river necessitates strict enforcement of the light regulations, if accidents are to be avoided, and City Marshal Appleby calls the attention of owners to Ordinance No. 259, which will be enforced to the letter. The text of this measure is as follows:

"An ordinance to regulate the use of steamboats, gasoline launches and other boats running on Rock river, in the city of Janesville.

"The Mayor and Common Council of the City of Janesville, do ordain as follows:

"Section 1. No person owning or operating any steamboat, gasoline launch or other boat propelled by motive power, shall suffer or permit any such steamboat, launch or other boat to run on Rock river, within the city of Janesville, during the night time, unless such steamboat, launch or other boat shall have thereon a suitable light in a conspicuous place to give warning of danger.

"Section 2. Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall pay a penalty of not more than twenty-five dollars nor less than five dollars.

"Section 3. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication, which publication shall be for three successive days."

MANY BUYERS AT MONTHLY SALES

JANESVILLE FAST BECOMING NOTED AS BUYING STATION.

GOOD HORSES ARE SOLD

Prices Run Fairly Well—Large Crowd Expected This Afternoon—Change in Date.

Despite the fact today is Memorial day a good sized crowd of horsemen and horse buyers were in evidence this morning and afternoon at the East Side Hotel Stable. The prices paid for the animals changing hands before noon were fairly good and the quality of the animals themselves were above the average. Janesville is becoming noted as a buying station for good animals and the crowds will continue to increase.

Change in Date.

The fourth Thursday in each month has now been designated as the monthly Market Day and the buyers from Chicago, Milwaukee, Ft. Atkinson, and Madison who are in evidence all state that they find good bargains in Janesville and are glad to come. The monthly market day will develop into a great thing for Janesville in time and if the business men discover it and offer special inducements on these days it will mean a large influx of trade to this city that now goes elsewhere.

Good Horses.

The general appearance of the animals changing hands today was above the average. While the majority did not arrive until just before noon the early birds caught bargains. The crowd was not as large as formerly owing to the fact it is Decoration Day, but there were more buyers in evidence than hitherto and this is an evidence that the market is becoming popular.

Close Bargains.

Several good bargains were made early in the day and the buyers with huge rolls of bills did not stop long to dispute over the price if the animal pleased them. This monthly sale day promises to become an institution that will be a great credit to Janesville. The city is located in a territory that does not conflict with any of the adjacent sale districts and can draw from the western part of the state easily. The Chicago and Milwaukee buyers appreciate this fact and say that they are glad to come here.

GOLFERS ENJOY THE FINE WEATHER NOW

Large Number of Devotes to Game at Sinnissippi Links This Afternoon.

Since early morning the links of the Sinnissippi Golf Club have been crowded with players while the clubhouse porch, the putting clock and the grounds generally have been filled with interested spectators who form a gallery to watch the players. This noon a tempting luncheon was served and this evening the regular Decoration Day Club supper and dance will be held. There are many visitors in the city for the day and the weather has proved up to expectations and a little beyond. Mixed foursomes, mixed putting matches, all for prizes, have interested the golf players; while visitors have been delighted with a view and general atmosphere of the clubhouse. The house committee have done much to make the day a success. The building is as clean and attractive as possible and everything points to a most successful season.

GAY OLD SOLDIERS PLAN FOR A PICNIC

On June 12, remember the date, the old soldiers of Clinton, Fort Atkinson, Edgerton, Evansville, Beloit, Milton, and Janesville are to hold a genuine basket picnic at Yost Park. All plans have been laid for a most enjoyable time. The day's program has been arranged as follows:

9 a. m.—Guard Mount.

Police Duty.

12 noon—Luncheon.

2 p. m.—Speaking and Singing.

3 p. m.—Old Soldiers' Drill.

4 p. m.—Dress Parade.

Drum and Fife Corps will be in attendance.

Not only are the old soldiers to be present but all Spanish-American war veterans, old soldiers whether members of any of the seven posts or not and ladies of the Woman's Relief Corps are invited to attend. It promises to be an interesting day for all concerned. S. C. Cobb of Janesville will be K. O. and E. B. Heimstreet the skillful adjutant. L. S. Moseley of Beloit is officer of the day. John Davidson of Milton is officer of the guard and W. B. Smith of Beloit provost marshal. Smith is the only man to be feared and he has prepared dire vengeance for all who interfere with the pleasure of the day. His guard armed with muskets that can shoot will be in evidence doing the same work they did in the sixties and woe be the persons who fall into their clutches.

MAY FRYE'S BOGUS "HUBBY" IN TOILS?

D. W. Christman, Who Is Wanted in Waukesha County, Was Arrested at Footville Last Night.

D. W. Christman, who, in company with May Dickens (Frye) of this city, is alleged to have registered at a hotel in Dousman, near Waukesha, on or about May 9, and Mrs. Frye, who was arrested at the Century hotel at Footville by Sheriff Fisher and City Marshal Appleby last evening. The warrant charging adultery was issued at Waukesha and Christman will probably be taken thither today. Though he is a married man, about forty-five years of age, it is alleged that he has recently been living with another woman at Oregon. The Dickens girl, it will be remembered, is a sixteen-year-old maiden who formerly worked at the Riverside hotel here and who was committed to the Industrial School for Girls at Milwaukee for two years on May 11, for the theft of a wearing apparel from guests in the hotel where she and "Baker" were stopping.

BACK PAY WILL BE COLLECTABLE SOON

Civil War Veterans Who Enlisted Previous to July 1, 1863, Have Something Coming.

Civil war veterans who enlisted previous to July 1, 1863, may receive $100 bounty from the department at Washington and it is probable that a number in this city will file their claims for the money. A statute of limitations, which has now expired, has been a bar to collection of this $100 bounty and in the past the claims have been refused consideration. The money is a bounty or back pay and is to be secured by all veterans who enlisted before July 1, 1863, of which there are a large number in this county.

SILVER WEDDING IS PROPERLY OBSERVED

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Palmer Were Surprised by Friends Last Evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Palmer of No. 1 Logan street were pleasantly surprised last evening by a party of friends who called to congratulate them on the event of their twenty-fifth anniversary. The little surprise was planned by Miss Carrie and Margaret Palmer. Light refreshments were served and just before the party broke up Rev. Vaughan presented Mr. and Mrs. Palmer with a handsome set of silver table ware as a token of good cheer from the friends who were present. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer were married in Chicago twenty-five years ago. They have resided in Janesville for the past fifteen years and their many friends in the city will join in congratulations and best wishes.

ACROBATIC CAT AT WEST SIDE STATION

"Thomas," the Official Mouser, Came Down Sliding Pole the Other Night.

Janesville now has two West Side vaudeville houses. One is the West Side Theatre and the other is the West Side Fire station. The former served for the season recently but occasional shows continue at the latter. One of the best performances of the year was given the other evening. "Thomas," the official mouser at the engine house, was the star performer. He had been locked out by mistake and about nine o'clock decided to turn in for the night. Up the back stairway and through an open window the feline reached the men's sleeping quarters. But Thomas slipped downstairs with "Fire Bell," the pet dog. There being no interior stairway he went to the brass sliding pole, down which the firemen come to answer a night alarm. Reaching out for the slippery rod he lost his balance and came down. Now, dear reader, remember this is a theatrical press notice.

Price or Quality?

It is a question of policy. EAGO believes there are enough people to keep them busy, who are willing to pay an additional price provided they get the extra quality, while the ordinary miller believes that a low price will sell any old thing.

Remember you get only what you pay for, and it costs money to produce quality.

DEDRICK BROS.DOG POISONER HAS INVADDED NEW FIELD

Fox Terrier and Water Spaniel on West Milwaukee Street Latest Victims.

West Milwaukee street has been invaded by a dog poisoner and two pet canines have been victims during the past few days. A fox terrier belonging to Mrs. Mary Conroy at 113 West Milwaukee died in agony Tuesday afternoon and a water spaniel, belonging to Mrs. David Cunningham of the same number, breathed his last yesterday. The success with which the South Main street poisoner escaped detection has no doubt encouraged other enemies of dogs and made them bolder in their work.

I. I. & M. RY. IS TO TAP JANESVILLE

Statement is Reiterated by President Seaman—Funds Will be Available July 1.

To a Janesville visitor in Chicago this week, President Hallett W. Seaman of the Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota Railroad Co. made the statement that one million dollars had been raised for the proposed line and that the balance of the funds, which would be secured abroad, would be available by July 1, at which time the actual operations of constructing the road would be commenced. The road is to take in DeKalb with its steel plants, Aurora, and Rockford, and on its way to Milwaukee will surely tap Beloit and Janesville, according to Mr. Hallett. It is designed in the main to be a freight carrying line.

Abie Forzly to Leave: Abraham Forzly, who has been conducting the confectionery store at 8 East Milwaukee street, will depart shortly for Stoughton, where he will open a similar establishment. Brown Bros. have leased the store apartment which he has occupied here.

World-Wide Study of Earthquakes

PROF. MILNE'S EARTHQUAKE STATION AT SHIDE, ISLE OF WIGHT

When the earth shakes herself and in the shaking tumbles down some of the works of man, there is a revival of earthquakeology. People are generally interested in that which is most closely connected with the startling current events, and it is so with reference to earthquakes, for the very recent destructive shocks in San Francisco, Valparaiso and Jamaica have served to quicken public interest in what science is doing in the study of seismic disturbances.

Few people in this country, perhaps, know that at Shide, Newport, Isle of Wight, an observing station exists for recording instrumentally the sensible earthquake shocks of the globe, as well as those earth tremors which constitute what have been called the "unfelt breathings of our earth." Prof. John Milne, F. R. S., inventor of the Milne horizontal pendulum seismograph, is the director of this station. Formerly, for upwards of 20 years, he occupied the chair of mining and geology in the Imperial college of engineering, Tokyo, Japan, and while in that country conducted pioneer work on its earthquake and volcanic phenomena. With him at Shide, as assistant, is Mr. Shinobu Hirota. Mainly through Professor Milne's efforts and enthusiasm, supplemented by the loyal help of a committee of the British association, 40 stations of a similar character, to his own have been successfully inaugurated in various parts of the world, the observers of which, cooperate in the general work, sending to Shide, from time to time registers of earthquake disturbances and other data for reduction, as also seismograms.

In Great Britain, in addition to Shide, the stations for earthquake observations are: Edinburgh (Royal observatory), Biddston (Liverpool observatory), Kew (Natural Physical laboratory), and Paisley (the Coates observatory). At Shide, time is obtained from the post office at Newport, which receives a daily signal from Greenwich. An arrangement is also in force noting the time by means of the sun. For this purpose in the south wall of the observatory there is a vertical slit made of two sheets of iron. The image of this is thrown by the sun on a north wall 16 feet distant. When this image reaches a line on the wall the sun is due south.

Earthquake inquiry, as a branch of modern observational science—the "new seismology," as it has been styled—is a study of comparatively recent birth. Whereas in former times disturbances due to sudden movements of the earth's substance formed the theme of more or less highly colored narratives and tales, much serious musing, by the way, being thrown in, nowadays all that is changed, the casual having given place to exact investigation, in which the mathematician, physicist and geologist each bear a part. So rapid, indeed, have been the growth and march of knowledge relating to the phenomena of earthquakes, the propagation and velocities of those speeding earth-waves or pulsations which are correlated with them, and the times and places of origin of the movements themselves, that some leading seismologists agreed not long since that the time was ripe for the initiation and maintenance of international cooperation among workers in all countries in this young science.

In 1902 the German government asked whether his majesty's government would be willing to engage in a conference with the view to bringing about an international inquiry into earthquakes. Provisional and favorable consideration having been obtained, a conference was actually held at Strassburg in the following year, when 25 countries were represented, though France, it should be mentioned, was not among the number. As an outcome, it was decided that a central association should be constituted, with its headquarters at Strassburg.

The first meeting of the permanent commission of this newly formed international seismological association was recently held at Rome, under the presidency of Prof. Luigi Palazzio, of the university of that city, delegates attending from Great Britain, France, Germany, the United States, Russia, Japan, Spain, the Netherlands, Roumania, and other constituent states. The representatives of the British government was Prof. Arthur Schuster, F. R. S., of Victoria university, Manchester. It was decided that the first general assembly of the whole body forming the association should be held at The Hague about the middle of September next. A president will then be elected, who will hold office for four years. The smaller permanent commission referred to above is to meet biennially. It is perhaps necessary to say that the financial support of the association rests on the basis of fixed contributions from the governments of the countries who have signified adherence to the scheme. As the result of discussions, it was decided, among other matters, that it would be desirable for seismological stations to deposit seismograph records of earthquakes with the central bureau at Strassburg, as well as to make provision for the inter-distribution of such data. The determination to establish a seismic service in the Arctic regions was, too, an interesting departure; as also the initiation of a competition for the construction of a seismometer which shall record the movements of the soil during earthquakes which have their origin near the place of observation. For this latter, prizes are offered of the approximate value of $250, $175, $125 and $75 respectively, perhaps the most novel form of competition which science has ever indulged in. The instruments are to be exhibited at The Hague in September.

Apart from theories dealing with the behavior of our planet and its internal constitution, there is a practical side to sustained seismological investigation. Earthquake destructivity, says Professor Milne, can be expressed in mechanical units, hence structures can be designed to resist known forces. Records of the unfelt movements of earthquakes—that is to say, those that are not sensibly felt by man—indicate the time, the position, and the cause of certain cable interruptions. Again, the localization of the origins of world-shaking manifestations, besides indicating sub-oceanic sites of geological activity, denote positions where the hydrographer may expect to find unusual depths, and they have also shown routes to be avoided by those who lay cables.

WERE CREATING A DEMAND.

Shrewd Trick of Waiters in Quick Lunch Restaurant.

The quick lunch restaurant resounded with a rapid succession of shrill calls down the speaking tube for "fried fish."

A clerk studying the menu was about to give his order to the waitress when he hesitated and inquired:

"Is the fried fish extra fine to-day? Everybody seems to be taking it."

"Them calls for fried fish is false," said the girl. "We've our orders to push the fish to-day. The boss calculated that, being Lent and a Friday at that, we'd have a rush on for fish. But our trade don't run much to the religious, it seems. I haven't sold but two fried fish all day. So now we are pushing it."

"How's that?"

"Well, you see, the boss can't have all that fish left on his hands and we know how to get rid of it all right. We wake up the customers to the fish by shouting out fake orders for it. I've rung in a 'fried fish' every other order for the last ten minutes."

She sopped up a little pool of water on the polished mahogany table and with a sweep of her hand cleared it of plates and glasses.

"Fried fish one!" shouted a waitress.

"Fried fish one!" came another call.

"Fried fish one!" came a third.

"You see," the girl resumed, "they are taking notice. Them orders are the real thing. When 'one' is tacked on the end the cook knows to send it up. We make people eat here what we want to get rid of most."

She interrupted her conversation with a loud "Fried fish!"

"It ain't that there's anything wrong with the fish that we're pushing it," she resumed. "But fish is one of them things it's hard to use over again, so it must go. After 11 o'clock when the boss saw the fish was hanging in fire, he gave us his official tip to push it, and that means a rebate of two cents on every order of fish we ring in. Why don't you try it? Nobody's kicked about it."

"Fried fish one!"

TRADING AT HOME

MANY REASONS WHY IT IS THE BEST POLICY.

SELF-INTEREST A BIG FEATURE

That Which Benefits the Community as a Whole Benefits Each Individual—The "Why and Wherefore."

As self-interest is the law which governs the transactions of trade, it is the first light in which the subject of "Trading at Home" must be treated. Sentiment has little influence in trade.

The prosperity of any community depends on the volume of business transacted within its borders. The facility with which business can be transacted depends largely upon the amount of money in circulation and any influence which takes money out of a community is detrimental to the financial welfare of the community.

It is in this respect that trading with mail order houses cripples a community. Money which should be kept in local circulation goes to swell the volume of money in the distant city instead of remaining at home to be turned over and over again as the medium of transfer among local merchants and their customers.

The effect of this diversion of money is not confined to the merchants who lose sales thereby; it extends eventually to every member of the community. It is a curtailment of business which affects the value of all property even to the labor of the man who is dependent on a day's work for his living. It reacts upon the people who purchase away from home in a degree which more than offsets any possible saving in price that may be effected in the purchase.

Every dollar sent out of any community for goods which can be purchased at home represents a percentage of the community. If the community is composed of the sort of people who spend their money at home it advances rapidly. There is money for public improvements, money for new enterprises. The money which the loyal man makes at home is invested at home; the city grows, the streets are improved and the marks of prosperity and progress are evident on every side.

We are wont to inveigh against the wealthy man who makes his money in one town and invests it in another. We criticize him for want of loyalty to the community which produced his wealth and feel that we are done an injustice by his failure to put his money in home enterprises which would increase the business and prosperity of our city. The criticism is justified and it holds just as good in a lesser degree to the man who trades out of town. It is the same offense on a smaller scale.

The effect of the reverse policy is promptly seen. The writer has in mind a notable instance. Two cities of about 15,000 population each are situated on opposite sides of a river which is a boundary between two states. Each contains several millionaires who made their money in the lumber trade in the two towns. The millionaires of one of the cities are putting their money into other industries in the same town as the lumbering goes out. As a result, the town is rapidly forging to the front; every one is prosperous, the demand for houses exceeds the supply; property is valuable and every one is working. The millionaires of the town across the river are investing their money in western and southern pine lands. The town is languishing for lack of money; new industries cannot start because of lack of capital; merchants are failing; stores and houses are being vacated; people are moving away and a general air of poverty and decay pervades the place.

Few cities present such strong examples of the value of money spent at home, but the same principle holds true in every community. It is due

FIRST BASE ADVICE.

Harry Davis Gives Requisites in Covering Initial Sack.

MAKING ONE HAND STOPS.

Should Be Able to Locate Bag With Feet and Keep Eyes on the Ball. Must Work in Combination With the Pitcher.

By HARRY DAVIS.

First baseman, Philadelphia Americans. Two of the most important things for a first baseman, in my opinion, are ability to locate the bag with the feet without taking the eye off the ball and the knack of getting the ball with one hand. Ability to locate the bag readily is one of the things that usually worry a youngster more than anything else, and at the same time it is absolutely necessary in playing the bag successfully. I do not know how the knack of doing this is acquired myself, but I suppose it is practice and a thorough knowledge of the position.

Even some of the players on professional teams are clumsy in handling their feet, but it is a thing to avoid. You should be able to touch the bag either with one foot or the other without taking your eye off the ball or glancing down to find where it is. Try this in practice and keep on working until you can make the play perfect. When you can you have added some 25 per cent to your playing strength at least.

Now, as to getting wide or high thrown balls with one hand. The first thing in order to be sure of this is to get a good glove and take as much care of it as you would of your clothes or watch. There is an art in fixing the padding. The latter should not be too heavy, and it should be rubbed back off the end of the fingers, so as to give the ball a chance to be firmly held. If the padding is heavy at that point you cannot grasp the ball hard enough to hold it and must use two hands or the ball will drop after being caught. Properly adjusted, the impact of the ball will cause your hand to grip it and hold it just as safely as you could with two.

One hand catches are of vital importance in fielding at first. Catching with one hand gives you a chance to cover a good two feet further inside the bag on a wild throw and almost the same distance on the other side.

A good first baseman must cover much ground around first and work with the pitcher. He should talk to the pitcher and coach him in regard to covering first. The latter is in a position to help the first baseman in making many plays which would otherwise be impossible, and the way the game is being played now it is of the utmost importance that the pitcher do his share of the work in fielding at first.

So far as the changes in the position are concerned, I don't think they are as much in method as in the men. We use much the same methods in handling chances now that were used formerly, but owing to the lighter men that are being used and their ability to get around faster they are able to be of more use to the team. I think that the passing of the heavy man from third is as much due to the desire for better base running as anything else. Team work on the bases is of such importance now that fast men who can bat scientifically are needed at every point, and a first baseman who does not study scientific batting and base running is bound to be a failure.

Johnny Summers, the latest English fighter to invade America, though a featherweight, has unusual muscular development.

He reminds one of a small edition of Bob Fitzsimmons. He is broad of shoulder and deep of chest, tapering down to his feet. His legs are smaller than those of the average featherweight, but his trunk is much heavier. His face is typically English, close knit, with an appearance of reserve force. He has a nose like Terry McGovern.

FARM HELPER TALKS BACK.

He Is Evidently Tired of the One-Sided Treatment of an Old-Fashioned Subject.

It is very seldom one picks up a farm paper without seeing an article giving the farmhand a whack. That is right. Keep on whacking. It makes him feel better. He loves his employer so much more when he reads these highly concentrated items, provided he gets time to indulge in the luxury of reading. Give him to understand the farm is the proper place for farmhands; impress on his mind that he should be very thankful that you are giving him 265 days' work in the year, and that his wages are greater than your great-grandfather used to get. Feed him on common everyday grub. Sell all your butter and use grease for the table; it will increase your bank account; take all of your eggs to the market—they are not good for farmhands to eat—they injure the digestion. Expenses must be kept down, as you are thinking of buying the adjoining half section and you will need the money. Kill two or three fat hogs in the fall and have hog three times a day. Fat hog is the stuff to hang to a hired man's ribs.

Be sure to have an early rising hour in the winter time for the hired man—3:30 a.m., at least. It will not be necessary for you to get up before breakfast; about six is the time for that meal. If the farmhand cannot find enough work to keep him employed before breakfast he can cut and haul up a load of wood. It is good for him, makes him strong, increases the appetite, and his love for you is tenfold stronger.

Find fault with everything he does, whether right or wrong; it does him good; he will stay with you that much longer. Always go around with a long and sour face. Eat as fast as you can at the table. If you talk to the farmhand at all during meals tell him about some article you have read relating to the poor quality of farmhands at the present time. Take plenty of farm papers—six at least, one for every weekday.

Make the farmhand do all the hard work. Use walking plows, but if you have a riding plow use that yourself.

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery"—was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—"Golden Seal root."

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of carefully maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery" was the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver or biliousness and kindred ailments which were made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical experts, and are the basis of the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the cure of the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompanied with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering or hang-on coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No more!

It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

Walking is good for the hired man's legs. Send him out to cultivate corn about four in the morning with a good fast team, and keep him at it until about 30 minutes after sundown. Probably you will have 12 cows for him to milk, and other work to keep him going two hours after he leaves the field. When a new hand comes give him all the hard work you can find for the first few days; that is the way to break in tender muscles. The farmhand likes this treatment, and will probably stay with you.

Put the farmhand in the hottest bedroom in summer and the coldest in winter. Be sure to have a hard bed; he likes it; it makes him tough. These things will help in keeping farmhands from leaving you.—Breder's Gazette.

Probably you will have 12 cows for him to milk, and other work to keep him going two hours after he leaves the field. When a new hand comes give him all the hard work you can find for the first few days; that is the way to break in tender muscles. The farmhand likes this treatment, and will probably stay with you.

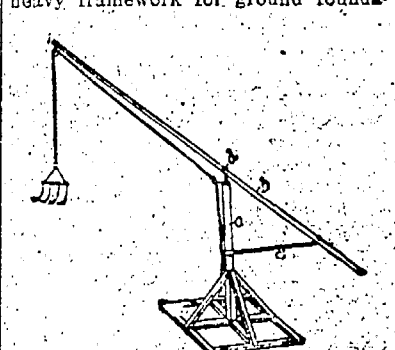

Put the farmhand in the hottest bedroom in summer and the coldest in winter. Be sure to have a hard bed; he likes it; it makes him tough. These things will help in keeping farmhands from leaving you.—Breder's Gazette.

Type of Haystacker Here Described Has Been in Successful Use for Many Years.

The picture shows a common type of haystacker used throughout the northwest. All such stackers are modifications in some respects of the pole, mast and boom. The stacker here described is essentially a derrick with pulley and hay fork. Several hundred pounds of hay can be lifted and placed on the stack at a time. These stackers are generally homemade.

The derrick is best supported by a heavy framework for ground foundation.

WESTERN HAY STACKER.

otherwise it may consist of poles held in place by guy ropes. With this the hay is usually lifted and carried over stack by a hayfork. In some localities nets are coming into common use. Attached to a lifting rope or cable, one or two horses furnish the power to elevate the load. When at desired height at end of boom, it is turned automatically by having the derrick leaning slightly toward the stack, when the fork swings by its own weight. The empty fork is drawn back to the wagon by means of the dumping rope, or by the handle shown in the cut. The upright timber, a should be of hard wood not less than 6x6 inches. In the top of this is sunk the iron pin, d. which holds boom, and serves as swivel. The crosspiece, c, running from a to b is so arranged as to adjust height of boom over stack by drawing in or extending the lower handle end.—Russ M. Winton, in Farm and Home.

A MAKER OF HISTORY

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM.

Copyright, 1905, 1906, by LITTLE, BROWN and COMPANY.

"It is an affair of the tides," he said. "Your body was washed up this afternoon, six hours before time. It will be in the evening papers. Ah!"

The telephone rang again. This time it was Mr. Grisson who was required. He listened for a moment or two with inscrutable countenance; then he glanced at the clock and replied:

"The Russian ambassador," he said, replacing the receiver, "desires an immediate interview with me on a matter of the utmost importance, and the Russian fleet has left the Baltic."

CHAPTER XXVIII.

DUNCOMBE was passed from the concierge to a footman and from a footman to a quietly dressed groom of the chambers, who brought him at last to Mme. la Marquise. She gave him the tips of her fingers and a somewhat inquiring gaze.

"Sir George Duncombe, is it not?" she remarked. "I am not receiving this afternoon, but your message was so urgent. Forgive me, but it was not by any chance my husband whom you wished to see?"

"Your husband would have done as well, madame," Duncombe answered bluntly, "but I learned that he was not at home. My visit is really to Miss Poynton. I should be exceedingly obliged if you would allow me the privilege of a few minutes' conversation with her."

The forehead of the marquise was wrinkled with surprise. She stood amidst all the wonders of her magnificent drawing-room like a dainty Dresden doll—petite, cold, dressed to perfection. Her manner and her tone were alike frigid.

"But, monsieur," she said, "that is wholly impossible. Mademoiselle is too thoroughly upset by the terrible news in the paper this morning. It is unheard-of. Monsieur may call again if he is a friend of Miss Poynton's—say, in a fortnight."

"Marquise," he said, "it is necessary that I see mademoiselle at once. I am the bearer of good news."

The marquise looked at him steadily. "Of good news, monsieur?"

"Certainly!"

"But how can that be?"

"If madame will give me the opportunity," he said, "I should only be too glad to explain—to Miss Poynton."

"If, indeed, it should be good news," the marquise said slowly, "it were better broken gradually to mademoiselle. I will take her a message."

"Permit me to see her, marquise," he begged. "My errand is indeed important."

She shook her head.

"It is not," she said, "according to the conventions. Mademoiselle is under my protection. I have not the honor of knowing you, monsieur."

Duncombe raised his eyebrows.

"But you remember calling at my house in Norfolk and bringing Miss Poynton away," he said.

She stared at him calmly.

"The matter," she said, "has escaped my memory. I do not love your country, monsieur, and my rare visits there do not linger in my mind."

"Your husband," he reminded her, "asked me to visit you here."

"My husband's friends," she replied, "are not mine."

The calm insolence of her manner toward him took him aback. He had scarcely expected such a reception.

"Monsieur may call again if he is a friend of Miss Poynton's."

"I can only apologize, madame," he said, with a bow, "for intruding. I will await your husband's return in the hall."

He bowed low and turned to leave the room. He had almost reached the door before she stopped him.

"Wait!"

He turned round. Her voice was different.

"Come and sit down here," she said, pointing to a sofa by her side.

He obeyed her, thoroughly amazed. She looked back among the cushions and looked at him thoughtfully.

"How is it that you, an Englishman, speak French so well?" she asked.

"I lived in Paris for some years," he answered.

"Indeed! And yet you returned to Norfolk, is it?"

He bowed.

"It is true, madame," he admitted;

"How dull!" she murmured. "Miss Poynton—she is an old friend of yours?"

"I am very anxious to see her, madame."

"Why?"

He hesitated. After all his was no secret mission.

"I have reason to believe," he said, "that a mistake has been made in the identity of the body found in the Seine and supposed to be her brother's."

She gave a little start. "It seemed to him that from that moment she regarded him with more interest."

"But that, monsieur," she said, "is not possible."

"Why not?"

She did not answer him for a moment. Instead she rang a bell.

A servant appeared almost immediately.

"Request M. le Marquis to step this way immediately he returns," she ordered.

The man bowed and withdrew. The marquise turned again to Duncombe.

"It is quite impossible," she repeated. "Do you know who it was that identified the young man?"

Duncombe shook his head.

"I know nothing," he said. "I saw the notice in the paper, and I have been to the morgue with a friend."

"Were you allowed to see it?"

"No; for some reason or other we were not, but we managed to bribe one of the attendants, and we got the police description."

"This," madame said, "is interesting. Well?"

"There was one point in particular in the description," Duncombe said, "and a very important one, which proved to us both that the dead man was not Guy Poynton."

"It is no secret, I presume?" she said.

"Tell me what it was."

Duncombe hesitated. He saw no reason for concealing the facts.

"The height of the body," he said, "was given five feet nine. Guy Poynton was over six feet."

The marquise nodded her head slowly.

"And now," she said, "shall I tell you who it is who identified the body at the morgue apart from the papers which certainly belonged to Mr. Poynton?"

"I should be interested to know," he admitted.

"It was Miss Poynton herself. It is that which has upset her so. She recognized him at once."

"Are you sure of this, madame?" Duncombe asked.

"I myself," the marquise answered, "accompanied her there. It was terrible."

Duncombe looked very grave.

"I am indeed sorry to hear this," he said. "There can be no possibility of any mistake then?"

"None whatever," the marquise declared.

"You will permit me to see her?" Duncombe begged. "If I am not a very old friend, I am at least an intimate one."

The marquise shook her head.

"She is not in a fit state to see any one," she declared. "The visit to the morgue has upset her almost as much as the affair itself. You must have patience, monsieur. In a fortnight of three weeks at the earliest she may be disposed to see friends. Certainly not at present."

"I may send her a message?" Duncombe asked.

The marquise nodded.

"Yes."

"And I may wait for an answer?"

"Yes. You can write it if you like."

Duncombe scribbled a few lines on the back of a visiting card. The marquise took it from him and rose.

"I will return," she said. "You shall see me."

"How?" Duncombe asked.

"By leaving Paris today."

"Your advice," Duncombe said grimly, "seems to lack variety."

The vicomte shrugged his shoulders.

"The other affair," he said, "is still open. If I stepped to the telephone here, you would be arrested within the hour."

"Can't you leave the riddles out and talk so that an ordinary man can understand you for a few minutes?" Duncombe begged.

"It is exactly what remains impossible," the vicomte answered smoothly. "But you know the old saying—you have doubtless something similar in your own country—'It is from our friends we suffer most.' Your presence here, your forgery me—some what clumsy attempts to solve this 'affaire Poynton,' are likely to be a cause of embarrassment to the young lady herself and to others. Apart from that, it will certainly cost you your life."

"Without some shadow of an explanation," Duncombe said calmly, "I remain where I am in case I can be of assistance to Miss Poynton."

The young man shrugged his shoulders and, sauntering to a mirror, rearranged his tie. Mme. la Marquise entered.

"You, Henri!" she exclaimed.

He bowed low, with exaggerated grace, and kissed the tips of her fingers.

"It," he answered, "and for this time with a perfectly legitimate reason for my coming—a commission from my uncle."

"L'affaire Poynton?"

"Exactly, dear cousin."

"But why," she asked, "did they not show you into my room?"

RIDGELY URGES CHANGE IN LAW

WOULD PUT TREASURY CLEAR OF THE MONEY MARKET.

USE OF BANK CREDITS

In Address to Detroit Bankers the Comptroller of the Currency Outlines System He Thinks Would Remedy Abuses.

Detroit, Mich., May 30.—At the banquet of the Detroit Bankers' club Wednesday night William Barret Ridgely, comptroller of the currency, spoke of "The Relation of the Treasury with the National Banks." He said in part:

"The best way to handle the collections and distribution of government funds is through the banks in which the business of the people is transacted. The passage of the act of March 4, 1907, or the so-called 'Aldrich bill,' makes it possible to take a long step in this direction, by leaving the revenues of the government in circulation, instead of collecting cash and storing it in treasury vaults.

"The most constant and serious complaint which is made of the working of the treasury department, in its relation to the business of the country, is that the treasury is always in the money market as a disturbing factor; that it is continually taking money out of the regular channels of trade and looking it up in its vaults when it is needed in circulation. To correct the conditions resulting from these operations, the secretaries of the treasury have for years found it necessary to adopt varying expedients to put the money back into the hands of the people. These different measures are generally put in force only when the bad effects of the treasury operations have accumulated until the money market has reached an acute condition, and frequently when the stock market, which is the most apparent indication of financial disturbance, is in a panic, and there is danger that the resulting liquidation may spread to the banks and general trade, and assumes such proportions as to be a dangerous menace to all kinds of business. When action of this kind has to be taken, there is always more or less criticism; the secretary is accused of acting only for the relief of 'Wall street' and stock market gamblers. The fact that stock market conditions and declining stock quotations seem to be the occasion for the action necessary, and that the relief given, if adequate, must at once restore stability to stocks and possibly is made the basis of their advance, gives confirmation to the charge that no one is helped but the stock speculator. It is hard for the average business man to appreciate the effect on his business of stock market conditions and to differentiate between the gambling of the few men trading in margins and the vast volume of transactions which determine the real value which are the basis for so large a proportion of loans and credits, the disturbance of which may at any time produce results which will bring panic and disaster to many or all lines of business.

Law Has Done Good.

"Under the laws which have been in force for many years, the receipts from internal revenue have been deposited in National bank depositories, daily, as received, but have soon been taken out from the banks into the treasury, only to be redeposited in emergencies. The act of March 4, 1907, now makes possible the deposit of all the government receipts in the banks, and in this way both internal revenue and the custom receipts can be left in circulation.

"It is possible under the law, and I think highly desirable to go one step farther than this, and collect the revenue mainly in bank credits; without the use of a great deal of the actual cash at all, and thus avoid the necessity of ever withdrawing a single dollar from actual circulation until needed, or it can be promptly paid out for expenses of the government. This can be done by allowing the collectors of both classes to receive, in payment of customs and internal revenue, certificates of deposit on banks, which are designated depositories of the United States.

Little Financial Disturbance.

"While in any depository bank or being transferred from one to another, the funds would be protected by deposits of bonds, and be as absolutely safe as if in the treasury vaults. Whatever rearrangement there might have to be between bank and bank and city and city, there would be no change whatever in the total amount of money in circulation, and, therefore, there would be the least possible financial disturbance as the result of the process of collection of its revenues by the government.

Let the Treasury Get Clear of the Money Market.

"Business men would then know what they could expect, and make their calculations accordingly. This would have a most salutary effect, for when people realized that the treasury department would not rush to their aid as soon as money became tight there would be less dependence on such relief, and a far steadier and more satisfactory condition in the money market. It may not be wise to do this at once, but this is the correct principle, and one which should be ultimately applied. This may be considered radical, but it is right, and it is better to be radically right than conservatively wrong."

And at All Other Times.

"Truthful and honest action in the morning will help you at noon and night."

BLAME RACIAL PREJUDICE

JAPANESE STATEMENT AS TO SAN FRANCISCO TROUBLE.

Deny That Labor Quarrels Have Been at Bottom of Assaults Upon Their Countrymen.

San Francisco, May 30.—The Japanese association, composed of leading Japanese residents, Wednesday made the following statement of the Japanese view of recent assaults committed against Japanese in this city:

"In the first place, the Japanese residents of San Francisco realize the fact that present conditions in this city made it very difficult for the authorities to extend full protection. They understand that the strike upon street railways puts a heavy tax upon the police force, and that it is impossible to guard all places at times against the lawless element of the community.

"They are fully convinced, however, that much of the violence to which they have been subjected is due to racial prejudice, and that the attempts which are being made in certain quarters to have it appear that the trouble is confined to quarrels between laboring men, incidentally involving the Japanese, are without foundation."

"After giving a number of specific instances of attacks on Japanese residents between May 20 and May 25, the statement continues:

"The uniformity of these expressions of hostility to Japanese precludes the idea that they are accidental results of chance rows between white laboring men. They are entirely distinct in character from the acts of violence growing out of the street car strike where capital and labor are at war. They are clearly an expression of race prejudice, to which the people of no other nationality are at present subjected."

"The Japanese residents of San Francisco further insist that no provocation has been given or is being given for these outrages. They are peacefully engaged in a lawful occupation, the right to which is guaranteed them by treaty stipulations. They believe that they are fully justified in protesting against acts which place their property in jeopardy and their lives in peril, and they denounce as unjust such public criticism as attributes their complaints to mere caprice."

Tokio, May 30.—A leading newspaper here, referring to the recent attacks upon Japanese in San Francisco, reminds the Japanese that they themselves at one time, in obedience to anti-foreign sentiment, committed outrages on Americans, but that the latter behaved with patience and moderation. The paper advises the Japanese nation to show a similar spirit to-day.

EXPLORE ROBBERY BY "BEEF TRUST"

PACKAGES OF CHICKENS ALL
SHORT IN WEIGHT.

EXPOSURE AT NEW YORK

Extensive Investigation Made by Inspectors of Bureau of Weights and Measures—Public Is Robbed of Millions.

New York, May 30.—A gigantic scheme by which the meat trust robs the public was revealed in the Myrtle avenue police court, Brooklyn, Wednesday, when Harry Schmidt, an employee of Armour & Co., the Chicago packers, was arraigned on a charge of having sold meat at short weights.

The arrest of Schmidt followed an extensive investigation made by inspectors of the bureau of weights and measures. They have found that on every box marked as containing 50 pounds of chickens there is a shortage of four pounds or more. The trust will only sell at "box weights."

Butchers throughout the country are paying 16 cents a pound for boxes supposed to contain 50 pounds of chickens. They receive only 46 cents and so lose 64 cents on every box.

It is necessary for the butchers to add this additional cost to the retail price, so the public has to foot the bill. This practice has been going on for nearly a year, but the butchers have feared to take action, knowing that the trust would retaliate by discriminating against them.

Wants Officials Arraigned.—Magistrate Nauman, before whom the case against Schmidt was up for hearing, was indignant at the revelations made.

"I will hold this prisoner for trial in the general sessions," he said, "and in the meantime I trust steps will be taken to bring an action against the officials of Armour & Co., who have guilty knowledge of this fraud. Little can be gained by convicting the defendant, as he is merely an agent. A stop should be put to this systematic method of making the public pay for the commercial shrinkage of chickens."

"It would be hard to estimate how many millions of dollars the public has been swindled out of by this outrageous method," said Inspector Frederick H. Tighe.

"The same conditions exist all over the country. The butchers fear to oppose the trust, and so the fraud has never been exposed before."

Inspector Tighe also declared that the trust uses the same methods in selling pork tenderloins and lard.

ILLINOIS TO HAVE THE TWO-CENT FARE

Will Affect Travel from Janesville
Very Decidedly by Reduced Rate.

Janesville people were more interested in the announcement made yesterday that Illinois had a two-cent railroad rate than they were in the Wisconsin-reform measure. A majority of the travelers leaving Janesville go to Chicago and they have been bewildered by the announcement that there is a two-cent fare on the railroads but have found that they have had to pay the full rate to Chicago after passing the Wisconsin state line.

It was the house bill 406, the two-cent passenger fare bill, that was approved by Gov. Deneen and is now a law. This is a direct two-cent fare permissible upon any railroad in the state. The only exception made is in cases where a passenger fails to purchase a ticket at a station where the ticket office is open thirty minutes prior to the departure of his train in which event a charge of 3 cents a mile may be made aboard the train.

The approval of the bill has been strenuously opposed by the railroad interests of Illinois and notice already has been served upon Gov. Deneen that the act will be contested in the courts.
